

Certificate of participation

The Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence on Climate Justice and the International research group "Climate Change, Territories, Diversity" (University of Padua, Dep. ICEA) held the lecture "Climate Crisis: Impacts, scenarios and opportunities" (with Luca Mercalli), on the 28th of February 2022, from 10.30 to 12.30 (CEST).

The event is part of the class "Climate Change and Adaptation in Ecosystems and Societies" organised by the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence on Climate Justice, University of Padua.

The Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence for Climate Justice works as a hub that generates, exchanges and collects scientific knowledge, practices, expertise on EU climate justice policies at international, European, national and local level among research, institutions, civil society.

The Centre responds to the need to bring the issues of climate justice and just transition recognised in the framework of the EU Green Deal into the dialogue between academia, society and policy makers.

The project was funded with the support of the European Commission, from the funds foreseen for the Jean Monnet Centres of Excellence, within the Erasmus+ programme.

Padova 11/04/2022

Prof. Massimo De Marchi

Academic Coordinator Jean Monnet Centre of excellence Climate Justice

With Self-certification made in accordance with articles 46 and 47 of D.P.R. 445 of 28 December 2000

Eleonora Panizza, PNZLNR94H61A145W

Declares to have participated in the Conference, at the following times

Hours	Seminar
2	28/02/22 10.30-12.30 Climate Crisis: Impacts, scenarios and opportunities

Per un totale di 2 ore